

NATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES

The National Security Studies (NSST) minor at UNL is an interdisciplinary program that prepares you for national security careers through acquisition of subject matter expertise and analytical skills. You can explore the wide variety of critically-important security challenges we face in the 21st century, such as weapons of mass destruction, terrorism and the emerging field of human security. Acquire skills such as critical thinking, writing, briefing and analysis techniques specifically tailored for the national security field. Whether you are interested in homeland security, intelligence gathering and analysis, foreign relations, diplomacy, or even international development, the NSST minor will add insight and skills needed to succeed in these professions.

The UNL Intelligence Community (IC) Scholars Program is affiliated with the Intelligence Community Centers for Academic Excellence (IC CAE) at the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI). This select group career mentoring group has helped students from UNL get jobs in the IC since 2010. We focus on skills building, familiarity with the IC and resume crafting to help students be competitive for jobs in Intelligence analysis, support and operations.
