

MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE STUDIES

Academics

You will study the evolution of such social institutions as trial by jury, the idea of rights, the hospital, the parliament, the organization of work by clock time, the dissemination of information by the printing press and appeals on behalf of the rights of women. You will also examine the growth of Protestantism and the renewal of Catholicism through the Counter-Reformation.

Your core requirements and elective courses will come from multiple disciplines, including architecture, art and art history, classics and religious studies, English, history, interior design, modern languages and literatures, music, philosophy, textiles, clothing, and theatre arts.

Opportunities

The program provides excellent preparation for graduate work in this area, especially if you are interested in literary, historical or artistic studies with an eventual career in college or university teaching. The broad education, which stresses careful research, critical analysis, effective writing and other communication skills, will prepare you for a career in many fields, including:

- Client Service Analyst / FISERV
- Editor / UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA-LINCOLN
- Park Ranger / U.S. FOREST SERVICE
- Rental and Events Coordinator / JOSLYN CAPITAL TRUST
- Student Coach / BELLEVUE UNIVERSITY
- World History Teacher / THE INTERGENERATIONAL SCHOOL
- Writer / SANDHILLS PUBLISHING

Experience

In the College of Arts and Sciences, we know experience is valuable and goes beyond the classroom. We strive to help you connect your academics with research, internships, education abroad, service learning and leadership experiences. Take advantage of opportunities in medieval and renaissance studies such as:

- Studying abroad in England
- Serving as the Medieval and Renaissance Club president
- Presenting at one of the university's many research conferences
- Researching medieval pottery analysis
- Volunteering with the Sheldon Art Museum