

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES
University of Nebraska-Lincoln

CLASSICS AND RELIGIOUS STUDIES

Study the culture, history, and legacy of ancient Mediterranean societies and examine the world's major religions.

Focus on ancient Greco-Roman civilization, ancient Greek and Latin, or the traditions of Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Buddhism and Hinduism.

OPTIONS

- Classical Languages
- Classics
- Religious Studies

HIGHLIGHTS

Immersed in Culture

Learn about Classical mythology and its massive ongoing influence on modern media. Examine ancient artifacts in museums and on archaeological study trips, learn Latin and ancient Greek, and role-play the assassination of Julius Caesar. Analyze languages and cultures with the latest digital tools.

OUTSIDE OF CLASS

Education Abroad

Explore the legacy of ancient cultures in a study tour of Greece or Italy. Conduct archaeological research of Roman sites in Morocco or Turkey.

Internships

Complete a museum studies internship on campus while working with ancient artifacts. Engage with faculty in paid departmental assistantships.

Leadership

Join Classics Club or support other students as an undergraduate teaching assistant.

Research

Work closely with faculty on a thesis for distinction. Design your own research project through University Creative Activity and Research Experience (UCARE).

Service

Engage with local faith communities and promote the study of the ancient world to area high school students.

— These are just a few of many opportunities available to you.
